

Fitting using fmincon:

The short line with a good fit is when I mostly fit points outside the displacement zone (right of dashed line).

The long line with the terrible fit is when I fit all points - fmincon is getting lost, not sure why.

I bounded it using the true parameters in the paper to reduce the search space...that didnt help.

